About Antioch

Antioch University Los Angeles is an independent institution that provides innovative graduate and undergraduate education for adult learners.

An Antioch education empowers the student to act responsibly and to effect personal, social, political and environmental changes within a global context.

The Antioch Approach

An Antioch education emphasizes:

- The development of the student as a whole person
- The integration of academic and experiential learning
- Creative, critical and independent thinking

This approach to education springs from Antioch's 150-year heritage of making learning meaningful and vital while promoting social justice.

“Education then,
beyond all other devices
of human origin, is the great equalizer of the conditions of men, the balance-wheel of the social machinery.”

Horace Mann

Antioch University Los Angeles is committed to increasing urban sustainability on our campus and within our community. We strive to print all materials on post-consumer recycled paper with soy-based inks.

What makes us different from other programs?

Antioch University Los Angeles is a fiercely independent environment designed for adults ready to commit to an intense, individualized scholastic experience. We are proud of the Antioch legacy that has provided innovative and experiential adult education since 1852.

Antioch University Los Angeles has been offering a multiple subject credential and Masters of Education since 1999. Our program emphasizes a student centered approach to the classroom which focuses on social justice, ecological literacy, educational innovation and issues of diversity.

We are passionately committed to providing a values driven education for our students. We strive to create a community of students, faculty and staff that seek to serve humanity and to become active and effective change agents within Los Angeles and the surrounding areas.
