Below is a list of positions on campus which are open to matriculated Antioch University Los Angeles students with work study eligibility. More information about each job can be obtained directly from the Human Resources Department.

Students should check with the Financial Aid Office regarding their eligibility and to turn in their resume for consideration. The Financial Aid Office will forward the resume to the Human Resources Department once eligibility is determined. Supervisors request resumes from the Human Resources Department for consideration and then contact the student for an interview. The student may also contact the supervisor directly for an interview from the list of positions. A selected student should not begin a job until all paperwork in the new hire packet is complete and returned to the HR Office.
